Once upon a time there was a unicorn that went on a stroll in an enchanted forest, when an evil man came bounding out of the most enchanted oak tree in the land and claimed it was his. After the man examined why it was his tree, the unicorn said, "That is my mother's tree".

"What? That's not true!"

"Yes."

After that, the man pulled a string, but nothing happened. Then he walked over to the tree next to the enchanted oak tree and pressed a red button and a cage fell onto the unicorn, but the unicorn could not get out. After that, the man pulled something out of his pocket. Before he could throw it on the ground, the unicorn asked, "What is your name?"

"My name is Henry. What is yours?"

"Well, my name is Frankie."

Henry is not a very wizardly name thought Frankie. After Henry had said that his name was Henry he threw something on the ground and a puff of smoke filled the air. Frankie the unicorn became sleepy and fell to the ground. When the unicorn was asleep, the wizard got his helpers, the flying monkeys, to carry the unicorn to a cellar.

After the unicorn woke up, the evil wizard walked into the room and said, "Look who's woken up."

The unicorn asked, "Where am I Henry?"

"You are in a cellar; can't you see that, idiot?"

"No, I can't see that because the only place I've ever been is the enchanted forest."

"Anyhow, you aren't getting out," said Henry, the evil wizard.

Then Frankie replied, "How about I make you a deal?"

After that, the wizard said in a curious voice, "Go on."

The unicorn said, "If you give me super strong healthy unicorn feed, I will help you with your plans to catch unicorns".

"You just got yourself a deal," replied the wizard.

After the wizard fed the unicorn, he let the unicorn out, but the unicorn did not help the wizard instead she fought the wizard and knocked him unconscious. Then she got the keys out of the wizard's gown and unlocked all of the cellars so all the unicorns could become a troupe. Later, Frankie had a baby called Midnight.

Don't worry, the enchanted oak tree is fine and back to solving magical problems and the wizard is on the wizard police's case.

You'll be glad to know, THEY ALL LIVED HAPPILY EVER AFTER!
